

A Farewell to Beans: Coffee Alternatives and the Future of Coffee Consumption

January 2022

Table of Contents

Coffee alternatives: key findings

Introduction: when coffee is not coffee

The analogues: Atomo and Compound

The next wave: lab-cultivated

The real value of these products will be to fill future demand gaps

Third-wave trends will protect coffee beans from serious competition

Coffee alternatives will not benefit from a plant-based “health halo”

Dairy alternatives should be the sustainability priority

The ethics of reducing demand at origin

Conclusion: a mosaic of options to mitigate climate change impacts

About Euromonitor International

Euromonitor International is an independent market intelligence provider. Data, insight and analysis stem from in-the-field research spanning 210 national markets.

Content ranges from the in-depth and country-specific, to key strategic themes with a global range and significance. Products cover a comprehensive range of insights and market data, but can be broadly categorised as:

- Strategy Briefings: Global or regional in scope, and focussing on the most important themes shaping consumer demand, the key markets, competitive environment and future outlook across a range of industries.
- Company Profiles: Analysis dedicated to the world’s most significant companies, with detailed insight into their activities, focus of operations, their competitors, their geographic presence and performance.
- Country Reports: For an in-depth understanding of specific countries, whether by industry, economic metrics or consumer trends and lifestyles. These reports cover current trends, consumer demand, market potential and future prospects, with country-specific local insight and comprehensive data, unavailable elsewhere.

For more information on this report, further enquiries can be directed via this link www.euromonitor.com/a-farewell-to-beans-coffee-alternatives-and-the-future-of-coffee-consumption/report.